

Time to Act, Time to Change

By Anuj Kumar Verma

It's high time for governments, all over the world, to make drastic increase in annual spendings for enhancing & strengthening up health infrastructure and medical research; And, to wage a war against "Climate Changes and Rising Temperatures" on earth. Spread of deadly COVID19 all across the world, has not only put human lives to a great danger, but also exposed hollow claims of even rich and developed countries like US, UK, France, Germany, Italy, Sweden and other European countries about their best health infrastructure facilities and preparedness to tackle biological warfare. These countries were talking about making people's settlement colonies at Mars and Moon. These claimed to be having developed technology for satellite wars in sky above earth. Countries were being attacked by US, NATO and even big terrorists organisations to control oil economies. Religious leaders, religious preachers were invoking people to fight among each other to show supremacy of their religion, their race over the others. Apart from this, an economic war had been going on since last two decades to have control over world's big consumer markets. But, today the world is equal; spread of COVID9 has forced to close borders of countries even within the European Union. All countries, all races, all religions, all groups are looking towards each other with hope to get the cure of COVID9, soon.

Powerful and giant economy like China took more than three months to overcome this serious threat, that too after recording loss of more than 3000 human lives and a shattered economy. Countries, all over the world, are forced to go for complete lock down of cities. Bazars & markets are closed; public transport has been stopped; there are industrial lock downs; Share Markets have collapsed badly; Even international flights and railway trains are being cancelled. A loss of more than four million jobs is expected all over the world. Scientists of all major countries are trying to find out a cure of COVID19, but even after official data of more than eleven thousand deaths due to COVID19 and more than two lakh people infected with COVID19, the cure is no where in sight. Though clinical trials are going on in many countries but without any authentic success. Let's hope that some clinical tests are successful, but still I am afraid that it might take a month or more for the drug to reach markets of other countries.

But, a silver lining is that when humans are locking them inside their homes, nature has come forward to reclaim it's lost space; levels of all types of pollution are receding drastically; birds, animals and marine life are showing a comeback.

This is one Pandemic which has brought the human race on its knees; Just think if catastrophic chain reactions due to "Climate Changes and Rising Temperatures" start taking place!!!! As we know, scientists and environment activists, all over the world, have been saying that only a time of less than ten years is left for humanity to reverse the rising temperatures on this earth. It is being projected that if we fail to do so, the Nature will start catastrophic chain reactions, which will be beyond control of governments all over the world. And, just imagine if such catastrophic chain reactions start taking place earlier, where will humanity go. Here, I won't narrate complexities of "Climate Changes". A simple information, I think all must be knowing that Glaciers are melting down fast with rising temperatures during summers, every year. Sea levels are rising up, putting into danger existence of a number of seaside prominent cities. It's not very far that big commercial centres, all over world like Mumbai in India, shall submerge in seawater displacing population of billions of people on earth planet. We are all consuming lot of antibiotics as OTC medicine and also via poultry farm birds & sheep/ beef farm animals, as these birds and animals are usually brought up using high dosages of hormone growth Chemicals and antibiotic drugs so as to increase their weight in shortest time and avoid any fatalities. God forbid, another unknown serious bacteria attacks humans on this planet, shall our bodies be strong enough to resist attack by the new bacteria. Immune systems of human bodies are depleting day by day. We need to stop this poultry birds farms, beef/ sheep farms culture immediately.

Aren't we moving towards extinction of human race, where the "Nature" is going to replace homosapians with some other nature friendly species? It is high time that we all ponder upon the serious issues posing threat to human existence and take extra ordinary measures to provide and strengthen up our health & medical infrastructure with latest life saving equipments, machines, gadgets for saving human lives in cases of similar or more dangerous Pendemics in future; We all take sufficient, even more than sufficient measures to reverse effects of "Climate Changes"; Change styles of our working, thinking and living, if we wish to see our generations prosper and live healthy lives in near future.
